INTERNATIONAL COMPARABILITY

The international comparability exercise was undertaken to compare the current Occupational Certificate: Commercial Cleaner with equivalent or related qualifications from specific countries in terms of their scope, levels and curriculum content. The purpose of this exercise is to compare this part-qualification against existing and comparable practice internationally. The exercise was conducted with two countries, namely, Australia and United States of America (USA).

Australia

In Australia, Victorian Skills Gateways offers Certificate 11 Cleaning (Commercial Cleaner). The scope of the training provides for a commercial cleaner who cleans offices, residential complexes, hospitals, schools, industrial work areas, industrial machines, construction sites and other commercial premises using heavy duty cleaning equipment.

The skills provided enable the Commercial cleaner to be able to: vacuuming carpets, curtains and upholstered furniture; cleaning, dusting and polishing furniture, fixtures and fittings; removing rubbish and recyclable material, and emptying containers, bins and trays; stripping wax from floors, re-waxing and polishing floor; cleaning and disinfecting laundry and bathroom fixtures, replenishing supplies and reporting defective plumbing fixtures; operating industrial vacuum cleaners to clean floors, work areas and machines; removing dust and dirt from ceilings, walls, overhead pipes and fixtures; applying acids and solvents to surfaces to remove stains and dirt; removing lint, dust, soot, oil, grease, sludge and other residues from machines, hulls and holds of ships, and interiors and exteriors of furnaces, boilers and tanks.

The certificate covers the large part of this qualification, but its scope extends beyond the RSA qualification. The RSA Commercial Cleaner does not do industrial cleaning, but the scope is limited to commercial environment like offices environment.

United States of America (USA)

In the USA, the New Skills Academy offers Home & Commercial Cleaning Certification programme. The programme is industry recognised certification that covers twenty-two (22) information packed modules completed online. On completion of the course the learners are required to pass a multiple-choice test, which covers all the twenty-two modules.

The programme covers amongst others the following skills: essential cleaning equipment; chemical safety; understand the job in detail; essential cleaning techniques and expected standards; cleaning products and protective clothing; the importance of effective kitchen cleaning; identify how to complete commercial kitchen cleaning to the highest standard; clean a bathroom and toilet area; hospital cleaning from areas you may need to clean to health and safety requirements; how office cleaning differs from residential cleaning and identify various techniques to effectively clean staff toilets; industrial cleaning, along with the difference between wet and dry industrial vacuum cleaners and how to keep safe when cleaning these environments, etc.

The defined modules are like those in this part-qualification; however, the scope of the USA qualification extends beyond the scope of the Commercial Cleaner in the RSA. The differences are that the RSA qualification does not provide for industrial, domestic, and cleaning of health facilities.

Conclusion

The qualifications analysed from these two countries are comparable to the RSA Commercial Cleaner occupational qualification. The minor exception is in the duration of the training programme, methods of delivery (online in USA) and scope of the training programme. The RSA Commercial Cleaner does not do glazing nor industrial cleaning. These specific skills are important for respective subsectors but source their own skills which in many ways are different from those of the Commercial Cleaner.
