1 ASSESSMENT STRATEGY

1.1 Assessment Model

The final integrated external assessment will be done at a registered assessment site accredited by the QCTO where both theory and practical ability will be assessed. The assessment will be conducted in the form of a written assessment where appropriate case studies must be resolved. The assessment will be conducted under exam conditions and the candidates will have access to learning resources (Open Book) The total assessment will be conducted over a minimum period of five hours.

1.2 Qualification Purpose

The purpose of this qualification is to prepare a learner to function as a Human Resource Management (HRM) Officer.

A Human Resource Management (HRM) Officer contributes towards organisational success by facilitating the professional and ethical execution of Human Resources practices including Human Resources and Workforce Planning, Staff Attraction and Procurement, Employee Maintenance and Development, Employment Relations Management, and the effective delivery of all related Human Resource Management Services.

Competent learners will demonstrate the following key attributes: patience and tenacity, fairness and compliance, objectivity and empathy, results focus and client centric service orientation.

A competent learner will be able to:

- Facilitate and guide the development and implementation of dynamic HR architecture that is aligned to organisational strategic intent and the agreed employment value proposition.
- Implement and coordinate the use of appropriate talent management and workforce plans and tactics.
- Implement strategically aligned and integrated Learning and Development (L&D) and organisational growth strategies and plans.
- Implement strategically aligned employment relations practices and initiatives.
- Maintain, monitor, and deliver HRM services.
